Lexi Bunce (Ruby Retro) joined the True North Family this January. She specializes in vintage and clothing.

My favorite thing all around with True North is the collection of items that have been hand picked. It takes time and talent to choose such unique treasures. Each vendor space is unique with so much creativity and variety!

Ruby Retro started from my passion of helping the environment by shopping secondhand. It also really began because I wanted to start sharing the treasures I found with others (and I don't have enough space to just keep them all)!

I have participated in a couple handful of markets! Some include Kane County Flea Market, Batavia Boardwalk Shop Pop-Ups and Illinois Vintage Fest! All are unique and bring in different kinds of people. I love sharing my love of secondhand with the community.

I have an eclectic style but I am really drawn to 70s prints and patterns. I always look for colorful items that bring a rainbow of light to our wardrobe or homes! What inspires me most is my small business owner friends. We are all on this thrifting journey together and I love seeing them thrive just as much as myself.

February Plant Care

As your plants are coming out of winter dormancy in February, there are a few things you can do to set them up for a successful growing season.

1. Wipe the dust off. When the furnace runs, it tends to stir up dust. This dust settles on the leaves, impeding the plants ability to photosynthesize. Wipe the leaves of your houseplants down with a soft cloth or wet your finger tips a little and lightly rub the leaves.

2. Turn your plants. During the winter, houseplants develop a lean towards the windows. Turn your plants so they grow straight and strong.

3. Add moisture. The air in your house is drier in the winter. Plants crave humidity. Consider adding humidifiers near your plants, or set up pebble trays under them. To make a pebble tray, add a layer of pebbles in a tray, and add a small amount of water to a saucer. Set your plant pot on top. As the water evaporates, it'll boost the humidity around your plant.

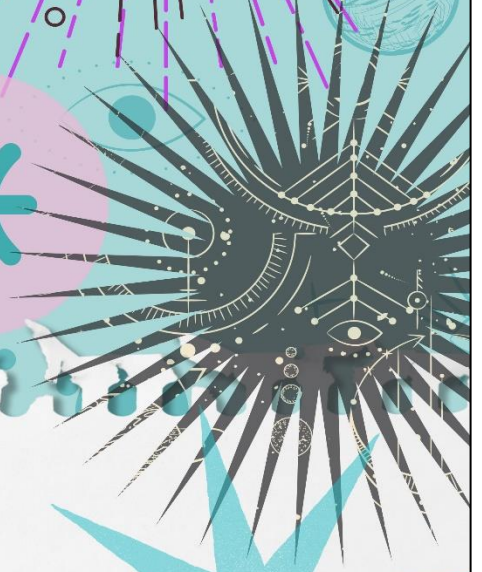

4. Monitor soil moisture. As your plants start to wake up, they'll need more water. If you're starting to see new growth, start increasing watering frequency.

5. Start fertilizing. If your plants are putting out new leaves, you can start feeding them. Don't jump in with full-strength fertilizer. Start by mixing the fertilizer at half-strength, or even a quarter of the strength. Fertilize with the diluted solution every three weeks, then settle into a routine of a full-strength application every two weeks in mid April.

6. Prune. Some plants tend to get long spindly stems in winter when there's less light. Prune this back to encourage new growth with stronger stems. Remove dead leaves.

ANDREW DAVID WEBER

Andrew David Weber is a touring multi-instrumentalist and vocalist living in South-Eastern Wisconsin.

The past decade he has spent traveling abroad both as a solo performer and with Celtic rockers, Whiskey of the Damned. He has been compiling content over the years and is always recording new music, as well as documenting his life on the road.

His music can be found on Spotify and various other platforms. His goal is to be accessible and approachable to the people who support him.

Though most of his works feature him on all instruments and lead vocals, he is a known collaborator, and will be bringing his band with him to play at FForest Fest.

The Andrew David Weber Band (Live) consists of Steve Cooke (drums) Brian Link (bass) Matt Schuetz (guitar) and Andrew David Weber (keys,guitar,vox).

People have said: "He is Super Talented & Humble about it"; "Great song writer and live performer"; and "The Singer, the Lyricist, the Composer, the Multi-Instrumentalist, the Front Man, the Entertainer, the Inspirer ...I recommend listening to every song he's ever written. I'd recommend getting out to see a live show. He's the best."

Andrew wrote, "After letting original works pile up for too long, I have decided that it's time to let the world hear what's been going on inside my head. My hope is that it might provoke positive thought and meaningful discussion. I want to help people cope in hard times."

You can listen to "Andrew David Weber" on Spotify and follow on social media.

Andrew David Weber is just ONE of the LIVE MUSIC acts that will be performing during FForest Fest. Full line up and schedule will be posted on the web site: www.FForestFest.com.

WHERE DO THE BOOKS COME FROM ?

at Next Page Book Store
inside True North

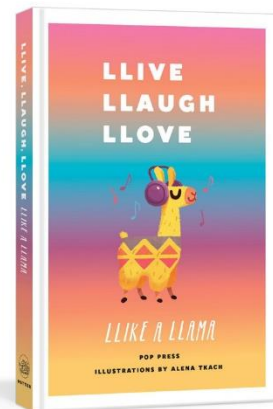

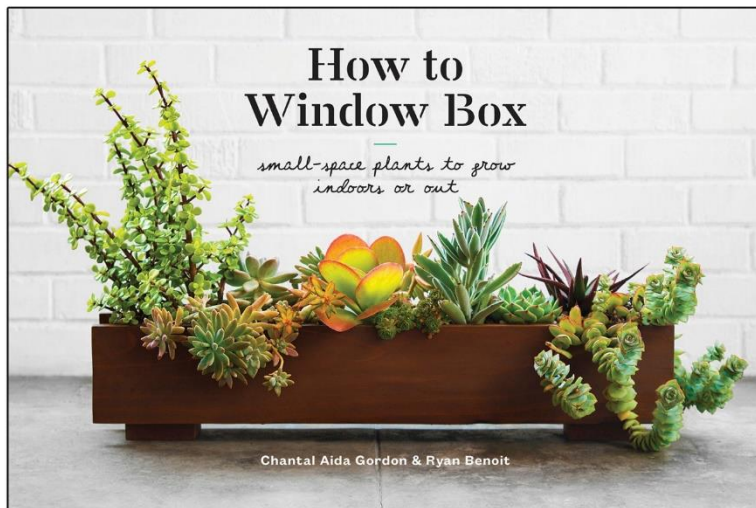

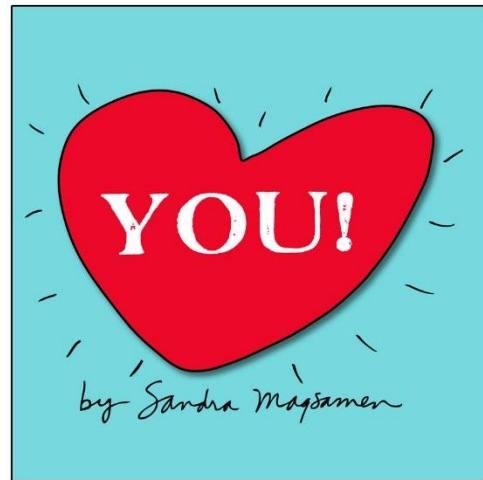

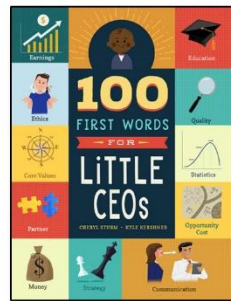

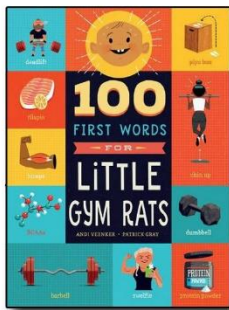

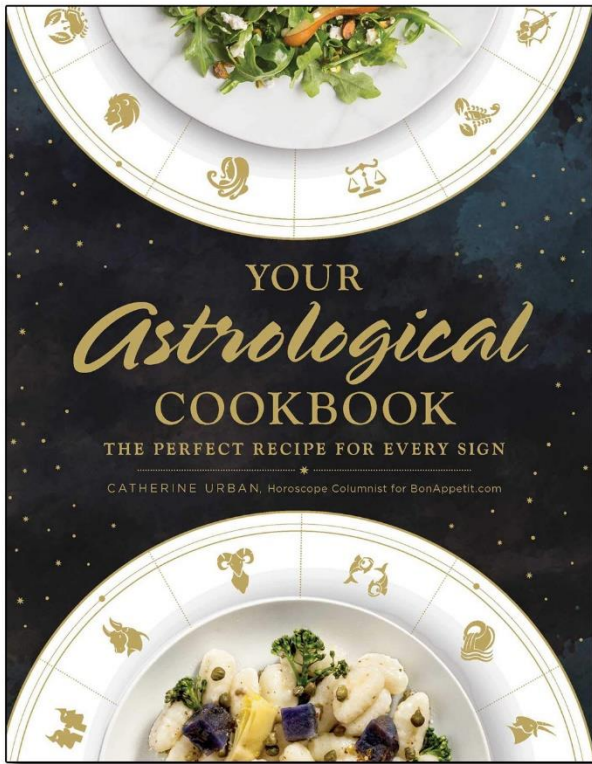

The Next Page Book Store at True North is a truly independent bookstore. We are focused on stocking these shelves with fun, gift-type of books - while doing something good for the world. Let us explain...

True North has searched and finally found a few resources that sell recycled "new" books. These distributors focus on selling overstocked books. These are 'new' books never made it to other bookshelves or books bought back from other small independent bookstores... which we think is freaking AWESOME!

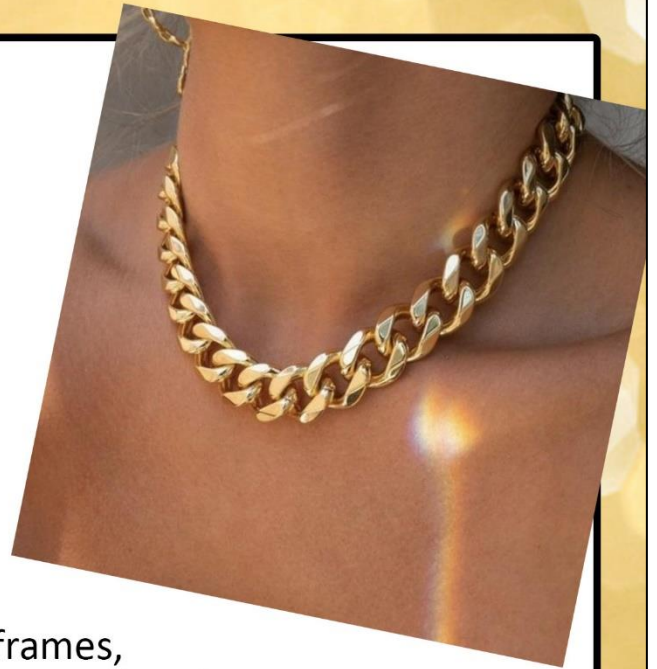

These books have already been produced and are sitting in boxes on shelves, so True North sweeps in and grabs them up! Now we can bring you fun titles and the perfect gift book for any occasion, all while keeping these books out of landfills.

As with most things at True North, we recommend that when you see a book you like, you buy it. Next Page book Store is often only able to get a limited number of each title, with no guarantee of ever being able to restock a specific book.

Books are added weekly. Follow on Facebook: NextPage Book Store
